Relative Clauses. Defining

We use defining relative clauses to give essential information about someone/ something. We usually use relative pronouns (who, that, which, whose and whom) to introduce defining relative clauses.

Eg:
- They are the people who want to buy the house.
- Here are some cells which have been affected.
- This is the picture that I was talking about earlier.
- They live in a house whose roof is full of holes
- Mary whom I introduced earlier is going to continue the demonstration.

Finish the sentence so it means the same as the previous two sentences.
